The Sexuality Summer School aims to offer an interdisciplinary postgraduate experience with a difference. Organized by the Centre for the Study of Sexuality and Culture (CSSC) at the University of Manchester, in conjunction with the Queer up North International Arts Festival, it includes: workshops, screenings, Q and A with performers, intensive small group study and student-led discussions, as well as opportunities to attend some discounted QuN events. This 3rd Summer School is open to all those with an interest in debates about the study of sexuality and aims to focus in particular on questions of feelings, emotions, and affects within queer studies.

Applications welcome from Doctoral and Masters level students from any university, as well as third-year undergraduates interested in taking the MA in Gender, Sexuality and Culture at the University of Manchester. Places limited, so book now; early-bird registration available.
